

HOPES & DREAMS LOTTERY A JEWEL TO JIM POAG

Little Bethany McIntyre, a five-year-old London resident who struggles daily with Leukodystrophy was able to touch the heart of local businessman Jim Poag. Poag, a father himself, was touched by the child's story and became a committed "Partner in Hope". He has ticket forms clearly displayed on his counters representing his continued support. Bethany's parents, David and Lindsey McIntyre, along with a small foundation of dedicated supporters, have brought the Hopes & Dreams Lottery to London in an effort to raise the dollars required to further research into the genetic disorder that causes a rapid paralysis in young children. Jim Poag was called upon to assist with the project and has contributed to the prize board of over 1086 items with a fine selection of watches and the much sought after diamond ring. Tickets for this lottery are $100.00 and can be purchased by calling 641-4673. The odds are one in 17 that you will join the winners circle. With top prizes being a beautiful London home and a condominium, people are realizing that helping Bethany and children like her means that everyone wins in this lottery of Hopes & Dreams.

The Age Dispatch, Strathroy, ON
March, 1999